

My name is Krystal Morin and I am a singer and member of the leadership team of VOICES 21C, a Boston-based chamber choir. Our choir is traveling to Rochester, NY for the upcoming American Choral Director's Association Conference from March 3-7, 2020. We are looking for organizations that we might be able to engage with while we are in Rochester.

Our group is focused on connecting our musical messages to social justice issues in the US and beyond and constructing programs that represent the voices of the silenced, the forgotten, and the marginalized. We utilize spoken word, creative movement and body imagery, traditional Western classical music, non-traditional world music, and improvisation in our rehearsal and performance.

We feel that our most significant work happens when we connect and engage with local communities and especially those in vulnerable circumstances. A collaboration could involve any combination of icebreakers (getting to know one another activities), a short performance by the choir, music and movement activities aimed at empowering others to express their personal feelings and experiences, and sharing stories/small group conversations.

If you are interested in arranging a visit from VOICES 21C, please contact Krystal Morin at krystalamorin@gmail.com.

More about VOICES 21C

In a time when American political ideals are epitomized by nationalism, alienation, isolation and aggression, VOICES 21C aligns itself with humanist ideals of globalism, compassion, inclusion, love, and non-violence. VOICES 21C is dedicated to promoting positive human interaction in order to facilitate social change and global understanding.

The musicians of VOICES 21C engage in egalitarian-based artistic processes comprised of the spoken word, creative movement and body imagery, traditional Western classical music, non-traditional world music, and improvisation. The group's contemporary approach to choral singing evokes for the listener, a unique and thoughtful perspective regarding the fears, hopes, and desires that characterize humankind.

www.voices21c.org

--

Krystal Morin

Music Director | Second Generation Manchester Choral Society

Voice Teacher | Manchester Community Music School

Assistant Music Director | Manchester Choral Society

Assistant Conductor | Boston Children's Chorus

Artistic Leadership | VOICES 21C

Immediate Past President | NH ACDA